

Growing Cyber Threat Risks for Governments: What You Need to Know

Cyber threats target cities like yours every day. All it takes is one small gap in your network to expose yourself to a loss of valuable data records or a total shut down, which can also risk lives if emergency services are affected.

The right cybersecurity solution can help safeguard your government, your constituents, and your ongoing operations. UncommonX delivers 24/7 protection no one else can offer by uncovering threats as they arise. Then we respond to those threats just as quickly.

Municipality Cybersecurity Threats Are Getting Worse

- 2020 was the worst year for the number of exposed city records and data
- More than 70% of all U.S. ransomware attacks target state and local governments
- Many cities have already paid large sums of money to recover from ransomware
- City servers have known vulnerabilities, so they're more prone to attack
- Cities rarely have dedicated cybersecurity teams or proper processes in place
